

NOTICES OF FINAL RULEMAKING

Initiated After January 1, 1995

Unless exempted by A.R.S. § 4101995, each agency shall begin the rulemaking process by first filing a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, containing the preamble and the full text of the rules, with the Secretary of State's Office. The Secretary of State shall publish the notice along with the Preamble and the full text in the next available issue of the Arizona Administrative Register.

Under the Administrative Procedure Art (A.R.S. § 41-1001) et seq., an agency must allow at least 30 days to elapse after the publication of the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in the Register before beginning any proceedings for adoption, amendment, or repeal of any rule. Notices of Final Rulemaking rules are badly out-of-date. The current AFDC rules were adopted in 1976 and no longer reflect the controlling federal law. Additionally, the current rules are not in proper style or format. The Department is now repealing the antiquated rules and adopting new rules which reflect current policy and practice and which conform to the federal requirements.

The Department is also repealing all the Work Incentive (WIN) Program rules. The WIN Program was repealed by P.L. 100-485, § 202(a). In addition, the Department is repealing all the Medical Assistance for the Aged (MAA) Program rules. The MAA Program was repealed by Laws 1981, 4th S.S., Ch. 1, § 13, and Laws 1983, Ch. 304, § 17.

Repeal of the outdated AFDC rules will benefit the public by eliminating rules which are inconsistent with federal law and which do not reflect the Department's current practice and procedures. Repeal of the WIN program and MAA rules will benefit the public by eliminating obsolete rules which no longer serve any useful purpose.

7. A showing of good cause why the rule is necessary to promote a statewide interest if the rule will diminish a previous grant of authority of a political subdivision of this state:
Not applicable.
8. The summary of the economic, small business, and consumer impact:

9. A description of the changes between the proposed rules, including supplemental notices, and final rules (if applicable)
There were no changes between the proposed rules and the final rules.
10. A summary of the principal comments and the agency response to them:
The Department received no comments on these rules.
11. Any other matters prescribed by statute that are applicable to the specific agency or to any specific rule or class of rules:
Not applicable.
12. Incorporations by reference and their location in the rules:
None.
13. Was this rule previously adopted as an emergency rule?

Telephone: (602) 542-6555

6. An explanation of the rule, including the agency's reasons for initiating the rule:

The Department of Economic Security is repealing all current rules governing the operation of the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) Program and adopting new rules for the program. The Department has authority under A.R.S. §§ 1954(A)(3), (F) and (G), 46-134(12), 46-201 et seq., 46-291 et seq. and Laws 1994, Ch. 310, §§ 2 to 17 and 19 to adopt these AFDC rules. AFDC is a program authorized pursuant to 42 U.S.C. 601 et seq. which provides temporary financial assistance to needy parents or relatives for the care of their dependent children.

The Department is repealing the current AFDC rules in Chapter 3 because the rules are badly out-of-date. The current AFDC rules were adopted in 1976 and no longer reflect controlling federal law. Additionally, the current rules are not in proper style or format. The Department is now repealing the antiquated rules and adopting new rules which reflect current policy and practice and which conform to the federal requirements.

The rules also implement Arizona's AFDC welfare reform provisions. In 1994, the Arizona Legislature adopted a comprehensive set of welfare reform provisions. The welfare reform measures were further amended by the Arizona Legislature in 1995. Arizona's welfare reform project is entitled EMPOWER (Employing and Moving People Off Welfare and Encouraging Responsibility). EMPOWER was approved by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services pursuant to 42 U.S.C. 1315. Under the EMPOWER project, Arizona has federal approval to deviate from certain provisions of the federal law governing operation of the AFDC, Food Stamp, and JOBS programs.

EMPOWER offers a bridge towards independence by creating an environment of responsibility and accountability. EMPOWER provides incentives for working, expands support services, and discourages long-term dependence on welfare. EMPOWER will help welfare recipients make the transition to self-sufficiency.

Major provisions of the EMPOWER project include: time-limited assistance, a family benefit cap, unwed minor parent residence restrictions, Individual Development Accounts (IDAs) to accumulate savings for education or training, elimination of the 100-hour rule for 2-parent AFDC families, and extension of transitional child care from 12 to 24 months. EMPOWER also includes a 3-year demonstration project in Pinal County, entitled JOBSTART, which allows AFDC recipients to work for private or public sector employers with the recipient's AFDC and food stamp benefits used to partially reimburse the employer for the wages paid to the AFDC recipient.

The rules govern all aspects of the AFDC program, including the EMPOWER welfare reform measures. The rules include definitions of program terminology and set forth the requirements for the AFDC program including: the application process, non-financial criteria, resources, income, eligibility and benefit determination, payments, appeals, overpayments, and intentional program violations. The rules establish comprehensive provisions for the AFDC program which are consistent with federal law and the terms of Arizona's welfare reform demonstration project waiver.

The rules create a new Chapter 12 exclusively for the AFDC program. Currently, the AFDC rules are housed in Chapter 3 with the state public assistance program rules. Separation of the AFDC rules from the state public assistance program rules will give the public a clear, meaningful, and comprehensive set of rules exclusively for the operation of the AFDC program.

7. A showing of good cause why the rule is necessary to promote a statewide interest if the rule will diminish a previous grant of authority of a political subdivision of this state:

Not applicable.

8. The summary of the economic, small business, and consumer impact:

I. ESTIMATED COSTS AND BENEFITS TO THE STATE

A.COSTS:

The Department estimates the development costs for implementing the EMPOWER Program at $2.3 million.
The state cost will be $1.15 million.

B.BENEFITS:

The Department estimates the net savings over the 7 years of the EMPOWER demonstration will be $12.7 million. Arizona will save $4 million in state appropriations for welfare expenditures over the 7-year period.

II. ESTIMATED COSTS AND BENEFITS TO THE POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS

A.COSTS:

AFDC recipients will have less funds to spend on goods and services in political subdivisions. The loss will be $55.3 million over the 7-year period.

B.BENEFITS:

Political subdivisions will benefit from the lower state expenditures for AFDC costs.

III. ESTIMATED COSTS AND BENEFITS TO PRIVATE PERSONS/CONSUMERS

A.COSTS:

AFDC recipients will lose $55.3 million in benefits due to the EMPOWER Program welfare reform provisions.
The loss will be as follows:

- $20.3 million due to the family benefit cap;
State share = $6.9 million.
- $35.0 million due to time limited assistance;
State share = $11.9 million.

B.BENEFITS:

AFDC recipients will receive $22.7 million in additional benefits during the 7 years of EMPOWER. The benefits are as follows:

- $13 million due to elimination of the 100-hour rule;
State share = $4.4 million.
- $1.2 million due to Individual Development Accounts;
State share = $0.4 million.
- $8.5 million due to transitional child care extension from 12 to 24 months;
State share = $2.9 million.

IV. ESTIMATED COSTS AND BENEFITS TO BUSINESSES/SMALL BUSINESSES

A.COSTS:

None

B.BENEFITS:

Under JOBSTART, a 3-year demonstration project in Pinal County, the AFDC and Food Stamp Program benefits that a recipient is eligible to receive will be used to subsidize employers who are willing to employ and train welfare recipients. The employer may receive a 9-month subsidy with a possible 3-month extension. In addition to the AFDC and food stamp subsidy, the state will pay the employers share of Unemployment Insurance, Workers' Compensation, and Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA) medical compensation. The benefits to the employer will be $3.2 million over a 3-year period.

9. A description of the changes between the proposed rules, including supplemental notices, and final rules (if applicable):

The Department made the following changes between the proposed rules and the adopted rules:

Under the EMPOWER ~~Program~~ project, Arizona has federal approval to deviate from certain provisions of the federal law governing operation of the AFDC, Food Stamp, and JOBS programs.

In several instances throughout the rules, the Department changed the alphabetical form of "ten" to the numeric form "10", and changed the words "paragraph" and "subparagraph" to "subsection" to conform with accepted rulemaking style.

10. A summary of the principal comments and the agency response to them:

During the comment period, the Department received comments raising issues or questions about some specific rules, as more fully described below.

A commenter expressed concern that the definition of a "request for hearing" in R6-12-101(66) may be read to require more than what is necessary to request a hearing and asked that the definition be tempered to remove an implication that nothing short of a fairly unmistakable written demand is required.

Federal regulations at 45 CFR 205.10(a)(5)(i) give states the option to require applicants or recipients to request hearings in writing. The Department has elected the option of a written hearing request. The Department liberally construes any written inquiry or submission which expresses a desire to present an issue to a higher authority as a hearing request within the meaning of R6-12-101(66) and, therefore, believes a change in the language of the rule is unnecessary. The requirement that a request be in writing is reasonable because it saves the Department from the burden of assuming that any oral complaint about "unfairness" should be treated as a request for a hearing. In addition, the requirement of a written expression is easily met because of the requirement of R6-12-1003(A) that the Department assist a recipient to put a request in writing.

A commenter suggested adding the clause, "or the representative's designee", to R6-12-102(C)(1) to allow for situations when the authorized representative is not able to obtain the file and wants to authorize another representative of the agency to collect the information. The Department believes there is no need to modify the rule because the applicant or recipient is the one who designates to whom the Department may disclose the confidential information. The name of that person or agency is identified on the release of information form. (See R6-12-102(C)(1)(b)). Allowing a designated representative to "sub-designate" another person would pose a risk of unauthorized disclosure and potentially violate federal requirements mandating confidentiality.

Notices of Final Rulemaking

A commenter expressed a concern that R6-12-105(D) does not specifically list R6-12-608 as a rule which is not applicable to the control group for the EMPOWER welfare reform demonstration project evaluation study. The Department is not listing R6-12-608 with the control group exceptions in R6-12-105(D) because R6-12-608 also applies, in part, to all applicants and recipients whether or not assigned to the evaluation control group. For example, the income deeming procedures in R6-12-608(D) are applicable to a minor parent who is married or has been married. R6-12-608 applies to both unwed minor parents and married minor parents. Only unwed minor parents are affected by the EMPOWER minor parent requirements. Therefore, for clarity, the exception to the minor parent provisions for individuals assigned to the control group is set forth within the rule itself at R6-12-608(G), rather than in R6-12-105(D).

Two commenters were concerned that R6-12-203(D) and (E) require an applicant or recipient to reschedule a missed interview appointment by the close of business the same day. Failure to do so results in denial of the application or termination of assistance. The commenters contend the rule should provide for good cause exceptions for missing the appointment due to circumstances such as lack of transportation or child care, or other family emergencies which make it impossible for the applicant to attend the interview or contact the Department to reschedule the interview before close of business on the day of the missed appointment.

The Department has clarified that the above requirement only applies to initial applications, not 6-month review interviews, by amending R6-12-203(E), and adding new subsections R6-12-210(D) and (E). (See comments above regarding changes made to R6-12-203(E), and R6-12-210(D) and (E).) Currently, the Department does not allow good cause exceptions for missing an interview appointment for an initial application. Because of the need for the Department to adequately schedule staff so that a sufficient number of eligibility interviewers are available throughout the day to conduct interviews, the Department denies an initial application when the applicant fails to reschedule another appointment before close of business on the day of the missed appointment. The applicant has recourse because the person can always file another application.

The Department is aware that this procedure may create hardships in certain situations. Therefore, the Department is reassessing its current practice to determine if the same good cause reasons which are allowed for 6-month reviews can also be used for initial applicants. Due to the impact that a change would have on local office procedures and automated systems, the Department is not modifying the rule at this time. The Department will obtain data on the number of applicants adversely affected by the current practice. If a decision is made to go forward with the change, the Department will amend the rule in a subsequent rulemaking action.

A commenter raised an issue about some possible inconsistencies with regard to the determination of a physical or mental incapacity of a parent. The commenter suggested that the rule should reflect the medical/vocational disability criteria the Department uses to determine disability for the General Assistance (GA) program. The commenter was concerned primarily that R6-12-204(B)(2) conditions demonstration of a parent's incapacity on a physician's statement that the parent has a physical or mental condition which prevents the parent from working.

R6-12-204(B)(2) relates to the finding of a disability within the meaning of R6-12-101(59) when that determination is made by the Family Assistance Administration (FAA) eligibility interviewer based on a statement provided by a licensed physician. An eligibility interviewer is not a physician and thus is not qualified to assess all medical and social factors when determining whether a person suffers from a physical or mental incapacity within the meaning of R6-12-101(59). In order for an FAA eligibility interviewer to make that determination, a statement from a physician is needed which clearly states the person has a condition which prevents the person from working, and thus meets the criteria defined in R6-12-101(59).

When the applicant or recipient is unable to provide a statement from a physician, the eligibility interviewer refers the issue to the District Medical Consultant for a disability determination. The District Medical Consultant is a licensed physician who is trained to make disability determinations based on appropriate medical/vocational criteria. See R6-12-101(26). The District Medical Consultant considers medical/vocational factors similar to those applicable to the GA program. R6-12-204(D) provides for disability determinations which are made by the District Medical Consultant.

A concern was raised about the verification procedures at R6-12-205. One commenter wanted the rule to include the eligibility interviewer's responsibility to assist the applicant or recipient in obtaining the necessary verification. Another commenter suggested that the rules ought to provide that the Department will obtain verification through collateral contacts identified by the applicant, and require further action by the applicant or recipient only when the collateral contact efforts prove unsuccessful within the 10-day verification time frame. In that event, an applicant or recipient would be allowed a reasonable time thereafter in which to secure still-missing verification within the 45-day application processing time frame.

The applicant or recipient has the primary responsibility to obtain verification to establish eligibility. The Department offers to assist when the applicant or recipient has difficulty in obtaining the verification within the processing time frames, and verifies information through the use of third-party collateral contacts when appropriate. The Department has added a statement to R6-12-205(C) to clarify that the worker shall offer to assist the applicant in obtaining verification when it is difficult or impossible for the applicant or recipient to do so. (See changes made to R6-12-205(C) above). Due to the high volume of cases, the Department cannot step in every time to contact a third party for verification. Often it is easier for the applicant or recipient to furnish the information. For example, it is easier for the applicant or recipient to produce a rent receipt than it is for the Department to track down the landlord to obtain the information.

A commenter suggested the addition of language to R6-12-206(C) to explicitly provide that an application will not be denied, or benefits terminated, when it is "morally impossible" for a person to be home for a scheduled home visit. We believe the clarifying language added to R6-12-206(C), and the addition of R6-12-210(D) and (E) will solve this problem for a home visit scheduled for a 6-month review interview. (See discussion above for missed appointments for an initial eligibility interview.) The suggested language would also have made the rule impossible to objectively enforce.

A commenter raised an issue regarding the denial of benefits to otherwise eligible dependent children not yet 22 years old, who were precluded by disabilities from completing their secondary schooling before reaching age 19. The eligibility criteria for a dependent child is prescribed in state and federal law. A.R.S. § 46-101(5) defines a dependent child as a child "under the age of 18 years or, if 18, must be a full-time student in a high school, or in the equivalent level of vocational or technical training, and shall be reasonably expected to complete the program before reaching age 19". Additionally, 45 CFR 233.10(b)(2)(ii)(a)(1) defines a needy child as a child "under the age of 18, or age 18 if a full-time student in a secondary school, or in the equivalent level of vocational or technical training, and reasonably expected to complete the program before reaching age 19". (See A.R.S. § 46-101(5) and 45 CFR 233.10(b)(2)(ii)(a)(1)). Thus, the law precludes the Department from extending AFDC eligibility to dependent children age 19 through 22.

Arizona Administrative Register

A comment was directed at R6-12-308(A) and (C). The commenter questioned the wisdom of applying the family benefit cap to children relegated by parents to the care and custody of needy relatives. The statute which authorizes the family benefit cap, A.R.S. § 46-292(C)(1) and (2), explicitly includes the clause "parent or other relative". A child is subject to the family benefit cap when the child is born to a parent who receives AFDC, or goes to live with a caretaker relative who receives AFDC. Under the family benefit cap, neither the parent's AFDC assistance unit, nor the AFDC assistance unit of a relative who assumes care and control of the child, will receive more benefits resulting from the birth of a child to a parent receiving AFDC. A "capped" child cannot move into another assistance unit in order to qualify for benefits.

The family benefit cap is designed to encourage parents to delay having children until they are financially able to support them. The family benefit cap encourages recipients to make responsible parenting decisions. Allowing another family to receive benefits for a "capped" child would contribute to the breakup of the family unit by encouraging parents to shuffle their children to other assistance units to receive benefits.

Another comment pertained to R6-12-308(D)(4). The commenter suggested the addition of the clause "including sexual assault occurring within a legally recognized marriage". Sexual assault is defined at A.R.S. § 13-1406(A). The Department will recognize any sexual assault which falls within the meaning of A.R.S. § 13-1406(A). The Department believes the statutory definition covers situations involving sexual assault occurring within a legally recognized marriage; therefore, there is no reason to specifically include the suggested language in the rule.

Another comment was raised regarding R6-12-308(D)(4)(c) which provides that a child is not subject to the family benefit cap if the child is born as a result of sexual assault or incest. The commenter suggested adding a statement regarding the amount of evidence the Department requires in order to rebut the claim that a child was conceived as a result of sexual assault or incest. The commenter suggested the addition of the clause "unless clear and convincing evidence" to the contrary exists.

The Department requires an applicant or recipient to certify in writing that her child was born as a result of sexual assault or incest. The applicant or recipient must provide verification to support the claim of sexual assault or incest. When no verification is available, the Department will accept the statement of the applicant or recipient. The applicant has the responsibility to provide verification necessary to establish eligibility for the child. It is not up to the Department to prove the claim is false. Rather, it is up to the applicant to establish the fact by furnishing appropriate verification.

The Department recognizes that in certain situations the applicant will lack necessary verification. When no verification is available, the Department will accept the applicant's statement, provided there is no contrary evidence which refutes the applicant's claim of sexual abuse or incest. The Department rejects the notion that it must set a clear and convincing standard of proof. Any reasonable proof which refutes the claim is acceptable since the burden of establishing the child's eligibility based on the claim of sexual abuse or incest rests with the applicant or recipient, and the Department is accepting the recipient's statement only because the recipient is unable to provide other verification to support her claim.

A question was raised about R6-12-308(F) which provides that the income and resources of a child who is ineligible for cash assistance due to the family benefit cap is countable when determining the amount of assistance for the other members of the assistance unit. The EMPOWER waiver terms and conditions provide that the capped child is included in the standard of need and is considered an AFDC recipient for other purposes except for receipt of the AFDC cash benefit. In Arizona's EMPOWER waiver application, the Department sought a waiver of 42 U.S.C. 602(a)(10) and (a)(38), and 45 CFR 206.10(a)(1)(vii) to exclude the needs, but not the income and resources, of the capped child. The ineligible child is a member of the family's assistance unit and receives AFDC supportive services based on the assistance unit's AFDC eligibility. Therefore, the income and resources of the entire assistance unit are taken into consideration.

A question was raised about the wisdom of R6-12-313(D)(2) which prohibits teenage parents from limiting their participation in the Job Opportunities and Basic Skills Training Program (JOBS) to 20 hours per week. Custodial parents age 20 or over may limit their participation in JOBS to 20 hours per week.

Federal regulations at 45 CFR 250.32(a)(1) give states the option of requiring full time participation in educational activities directed toward the attainment of a high school diploma or its equivalent. The Department believes education is important to the achievement of long-term self-sufficiency, especially for young parents. R6-12-313(D)(2) allows teenage custodial parents to participate more than 20 hours per week when such participation is necessary to complete a high school education or its equivalent.

Two commenters expressed concern with the 10-day window of opportunity to request an extension of the 24-month benefit limit. They also argued that a person should be able to request a extension even after benefits have already been reduced after the 24 eligible months.

The Department has decided to not grant extensions once the adult has received cash assistance for 24 months and has been removed from the assistance grant. An extension will not be granted unless the adult files for an extension while currently eligible for benefits. The Department has retained the 10-day window of opportunity but has added good cause reasons which will enable a recipient to file for an extension up until the last day of the 24th eligible month.

A commenter suggested the addition of language in R6-12-316(D) to clarify how the Department will determine the amount of income which equals the amount of the benefit that the recipient became ineligible to receive. R6-12-316(B) currently provides that the monthly earnings must equal the incremental benefit amount otherwise payable for the ineligible adult. The incremental benefit amount is the difference between the benefit amount with the needs of the ineligible adult included in the computation and the benefit amount with the needs of the ineligible adult excluded from the benefit amount. Under the existing AFDC payment standards, the incremental difference is either $71 or $72 per month if an assistance unit incurs a rent or mortgage obligation on its place of residence, and $45 per month if an assistance unit lacks a shelter obligation. Computation of benefits is prescribed in Article 7. The Department received a comment regarding the provision of R6-12-316(E)(1) which requires a recipient to make at least 3 employer contacts each month in order to qualify for an extension of the 24-month benefit limit. A comment was made that it is easier for a person who lives in a city to make 3 employer contacts than it is for a person who lives in a rural or remote area or who lacks reliable transportation.

The job search criteria prescribed in R6-12-316(C) are quite broad. Many different types of activities may constitute a work search effort. A person who lives in a remote area, or who lacks transportation, can still take appropriate steps to secure suitable employment. Three contacts per month is not an impossible task for a person who is willing to achieve self-sufficiency. Anyone, even if living in a very remote area, or without transportation, is expected to make a reasonable effort to find work.

A comment was received concerning the good cause provisions prescribed at R6-12-316(I) for not accepting an offer of employment, or not maintaining employment which provides gross monthly earnings equal to the amount the assistance unit lost due to imposition of the 24-month limit on assistance. The commenter suggested that the Department should add additional good cause reasons for situations where the costs necessary to the employment exceed the lost AFDC benefit amount, the offered wage was less than the minimum wage, the working conditions would involve undue risk to the parent's health or safety, the work lacked workers' compensation protection, or the employer discriminates on grounds prohibited by federal and state law.

The Department has added an additional good cause reason for lack of available and appropriate child care. (See the changes made to R6-12-316(I) above). The Department is not adding any other good cause reasons because the Department is limiting good cause to circumstances which are beyond the recipient's control. The Department believes there is no reason to consider the costs necessary to employment because the recipient must only seek or maintain employment which pays gross monthly earnings equal to the amount which the assistance unit lost due to imposition of the 24-month limit. This is currently only about $72 per month. Moreover, the Department is not adding good cause reasons for an offered wage of less than the minimum wage, for working conditions which involve undue risk to the parent's health or safety, for work which lacks workers' compensation protection, or for employer discrimination because there are existing labor laws which govern such practices.

The Department also received a comment about R6-12-404(J) regarding the lack of a provision for emergency withdrawals from an Individual Development Account (IDA). Laws 1994, Ch. 227, § 3(F) prescribes the reasons for which a recipient may withdraw IDA funds without the withdrawn funds counting against the AFDC and food stamp resource limitations. The funds may be withdrawn only for educational or training costs. The Department cannot promulgate a rule that would be broader than the allowed statutory grounds.

The Department received a comment about the definition of legal emancipation of a minor parent in R6-12-608(C)(2). The commenter wanted to include other factors such as the lack of parental objection to setting up a separate home, the minor's intentions not to return the parental home, the minor's ability to support herself, and the minor's age. A.R.S. § 46-296(B)(2) defines emancipation in reference to "the laws of this state". There is no statutory definition of emancipation in the Arizona Revised Statutes.

Therefore, the Department's emancipation criteria is drawn primarily from Attorney General Opinion No. 69-27, October 10, 1969, Tencza v. Aetna Casualty and Surety Company, 111 Ariz. 226, 527 P.2d 97 (1974), and from federal law, as described below. Economic self-sufficiency and financial independence from the parent are integral components of emancipation. The Department is, however, deleting the provision regarding recipient of food stamp benefits from the definition. (See changes made to R6-12-608(C)(2)(iii) above).

The commenter also expressed a concern that the 12-month time frame to establish emancipation should be shortened. The Department's minor parent provisions are also based on the allowable state option for minor parents set forth in 45 CFR 233.107. Federal law allows states the option of denying benefits to unemancipated unwed minor parents under certain circumstances. The federal option defines emancipation as financial independence for at least 12 months. Although Arizona elected to develop its own unwed minor parent provision under a waiver, rather than the federal option, Arizona has decided to follow the federal model for the 12-month time period. The 1-year requirement for living apart from the parent or guardian is prescribed in 45 CFR 233.107(a)(3).

The Department received several comments about the minor parent provisions of R6-12-608 regarding the role of the Department's Child Protective Services (CPS) when there is a threat to the well-being of the minor parent due to abuse or neglect. One commenter believes CPS lacks the necessary staff or resources to conduct consistently satisfactory assessments of abuse or neglect and believes the minor parent cases must therefore be assigned only to experienced and completely trained CPS professionals.

CPS is capable of conducting adequate investigations of alleged incidents of abuse or neglect affecting the minor parents or the minor parent's children. Competent CPS staff will investigate the minor parent claims of abuse or neglect and report the findings to FAA.

A commenter urged the Department to amend R6-12-608 to expressly provide for instances of abuse or neglect which first arise after a minor parent joins a household in which she can receive AFDC. This type of situation will be handled in the same manner as currently provided for in R6-12-608(C)(3). The FAA will refer the allegation of abuse or neglect to CPS for an assessment whether the abuse or neglect occurred before the minor parent extricated herself from an abusive or neglectful situation, or if the minor parent finds herself in an abusive or neglectful situation as result of her move into the home of a parent or other responsible adult.

A commenter expressed concern that CPS involvement could create negativity in an already dysfunctional situation. Another commenter expressed concern that a minor parent must prove that the parents are unfit, and that it will be a long drawn out process for the minor parent to prove, through a CPS investigation, that she would be subject to abuse or neglect if living in the parent's home.

Notices of Final Rulemaking

Minors are safe because they are given the benefit of doubt. The Department will accept their claim (self-statement) of abuse or neglect before we pursue an investigation. The Department believes that CPS will play a vital role in keeping minor parents from situations involving abuse or neglect which threaten their health or safety. If a minor parent alleges abuse or neglect if she returns to the home of a responsible adult, CPS will investigate so that the minor parent is not placed in an abusive or neglectful environment. The minor parent is eligible for AFDC pending the CPS assessment of the allegations. See R6-12-608(C)(3)(f).

Another question involved privacy concerns during the hearing process when a minor parent is determined ineligible based on a CPS finding that the allegation of abuse or neglect is invalid, and the minor parent appeals the decision to terminate benefits on those grounds. A CPS worker will attend the hearing which will be conducted according to the hearing procedures set forth in Article 10. All information concerning the minor parent is subject to the confidentiality requirements set forth in R6-12-102. In addition, because the case involves a CPS investigation, the minor will have the added confidentiality protection of A.R.S. § 8-546.07.

There was a general concern that the EMPOWER minor parent provisions are directed at females who are quite often the victim of assault or sexual abuse. There was a concern that the EMPOWER minor parent provisions will not solve the problem but will instead force the problem to erupt elsewhere.

The Legislature made the decision to deny benefits to unwed minor parents under certain circumstances as a matter of state public policy. The Department must follow the law. Moreover, the Department believes that the EMPOWER minor parent provisions will help prevent teen pregnancies and promote parental responsibility. Requiring a school-age parent to live at home with her parents or another responsible relative is in the best interests of the minor parent and the minor parent's child. The minor parent provisions will help maintain and strengthen family life by creating disincentives for young parents to separate from their parents and to set up households where they lack the support and guidance of a responsible adult.

There were several general comments about minor parents having to live in the home of their parents in order to receive AFDC when the parents are unfit to manage the AFDC benefits. A commenter expressed concerns about who the payee will be for the minor parent's assistance unit. R6-12-608(C)(4)(b) requires the responsible adult to serve as the payee for the assistance grant when the minor parent moves into the home of a responsible adult who receives AFDC. There was a concern that the parent of the minor parent may be a drug addict or an alcoholic who will not give the minor parent enough money to care for her child.

The Department will pay the benefits to a protective payee when the recipient payee mismanages or misappropriates the benefits. If the caretaker relative is a drug addict or alcoholic who is unable to adequately serve as the payee for the minor parent's assistance unit, then the Department, with the assistance of the recipient, will select an appropriate payee. (See R6-12-806).

A related concern involved the emergency payee provisions in R6-12-807, and that drug addiction is not specifically mentioned. R6-12-806 is applicable to situations where the caretaker relative mismanages or misappropriates the AFDC benefits due to chemical dependence.

A comment was received regarding R6-12-901 which requires the assistance unit to report all changes in circumstances. The commenter stressed that it is important to ensure that the notice which advises the assistance unit of its reporting responsibilities is provided in language that is clear and comprehensible; that the print is large enough to read easily; and that the notice is available in Spanish when appropriate. The Department is adding a statement to R6-12-203(C)(4) which clarifies that the recipient is provided written information about the duties of the assistance unit to report any change of circumstances affecting eligibility or benefit amount. The FAA eligibility interviewer provides the applicant with a pamphlet which is available in either English or Spanish. The pamphlet explains the reporting responsibilities in clear, easily understandable language.

A question was raised concerning R6-12-902(G) and whether the Department must provide "adequate notice" or "adequate and timely notice" when the Department receives a written request for the voluntary withdrawal of a member from the assistance unit. Federal regulations at 45 CFR 205.10(a)(4)(ii)(B) require only adequate notice when the Department receives a clear written statement signed by a recipient requesting a reduction in benefits, and the recipient understands the consequences of that request. R6-12-902(G) addresses a situation where the assistance unit has submitted a written request for voluntary removal of a member. Adequate notice is appropriate.

Another comment pertained to R6-12-903 which explains how the Department determines benefits when adding a member to the assistance unit, or removing a member from the unit. A question was raised as to whether a new application for all members is required when adding a new member, or merely a single form for the new member. The commenter believes an entire new application is burdensome and unnecessary when verification is only needed for the new member.

The Department requires an add-on application when a new member is added to the assistance unit. The Department redetermines eligibility for the entire assistance unit when a new member is added to ensure that the entire family unit receives the correct amount of benefits.

The commenter also suggested that the determination made under R6-12-903(B) be made in a specific number of days. An add-on application is treated like any other review application, and the 45-day processing time frame prescribed in R6-12-209(A) applies.

A commenter suggested that R6-12-903(C)(3)(b) and (c) include adequate and timely notice. The recipient is provided adequate and timely notice when the benefits are reduced pursuant to R6-12-907. The assistance unit is always provided notice of an overpayment and is given an opportunity to appeal the existence of an overpayment or the amount of an overpayment. See R6-12-1001(A)(6).

A commenter raised an issue that R6-12-1002 is silent on the household's right to a hearing on the timeliness of the appeal. The Department has no objection to such an addition to the rule in general. However, the Department needs to avoid what could possibly be a never ending cycle of hearing requests on the timeliness issue. In addition, the disposition that an appeal is untimely will allow the recipient to request a hearing or review of that decision. Therefore, the Department did not add this provision to the rule.

A commenter suggested that R6-12-1006(D)(3) be modified to require a more specific explanation of the issues and legal citations on the hearing notice. The Department's hearing notice currently provides a summary of the issues involved in easily understandable language.

Arizona Administrative Register

A commenter suggested that R6-12-1007(B) be revised to allow the assistance unit to seek a postponement of the hearing once, for any reason, even if the unit seeks a postponement less than 5 business days prior to the hearing. The Department believes that both parties should be bound by the 5-day rule. The 5-day time frame is reasonable and gives the appellant enough time in advance of the scheduled hearing to contact the hearing office if unable to attend the hearing.

The Department received a comment regarding the definition of "party" in R6-12-101(57), and the use of the term "party" in R6-12-1012(D), and R6-12-1014(A) and (B). The commenter alleges that the Department would be out of compliance with federal law if the Department allows itself to appeal an adverse decision.

The Department issues a determination it believes is appropriate. If the applicant or recipient disagrees, the Department action by definition is "adverse" to the applicant or recipient. Only the applicant or recipient, of course, may request a hearing from an adverse Department action. (See R6-12-101(66), ("Request for hearing" means a clear written expression by an applicant or recipient...), and R6-12-1001(A), describing adverse Department actions.)

Upon a request for a hearing by an applicant or recipient, the hearing officer in the Office of Appeals conducts the hearing and issues the decision. (See R6-12-1005). By federal law, the Department may not appeal an adverse hearing decision on a food stamp issue. (See 7 CFR 273.15(q)(2)). Federal law places no such restriction, however, on the Department's right to appeal adverse hearing decisions concerning AFDC claims. The federal regulations cited in the comment (45 CFR 205.25(16)) merely requires written notice be given to the claimant of any appeal rights the claimant has in AFDC cases. (See 45 CFR 205.25(17)). Because this regulation does not limit the appeal right of the Department, the Department's designation as a "party" in R6-12-101(57) is appropriate for administrative review (appeal) of AFDC hearing decisions described in R6-12-1014(A). The Department, therefore, can appeal an adverse hearing decision to the Appeals Board on any issue except one involving food stamps.

During the applicant or recipient's appeal to the Appeals Board from a hearing officer's decision, adverse action is stayed until the Board's determination. (See R6-12-1014(B)). Adverse agency action is also stayed if the claimant requests a hearing within 10 days of the initial adverse Department action. (See R6-12-1004).

A commenter urged that R6-12-1015 incorporate a time limit for the Appeals Board to issue a decision on AFDC cases. Neither federal nor state law imposes any time limit on the Appeals Board to issue a decision. The Appeals Board always tries to issue decisions as soon as possible. The timing is governed by the work load and the number of Appeals Board members authorized in statute.

A commenter suggested the Department should promulgate a rule regarding overpayments when the Department is recovering an overpayment from an assistance unit alleging liability for a pre-existing overpayment. The Department will assess this further and may open a rulemaking docket to promulgate such a rule if warranted.

A commenter raised a concern about R6-12-1202(C) which sets forth the contents of hearing waiver notice for an Intentional Program Violation (IPV). The commenter expressed concern that the hearing notice may be calculated to deter the average recipient from contesting the alleged IPV at a due process hearing. The Department disagrees. The Department's waiver notice, in combination with the notice of hearing, follows the requirements of 45 CFR 235.113. The notice gives the suspected violator an opportunity to waive the administrative hearing but is not calculated to induce the person to do so. The information included on the notice safeguards the rights of the person who is suspected of committing an IPV.

A commenter urged that Article 12 be revised to provide that IPV hearings will be held and decisions issued within the same time limits imposed for other types of hearings before an administrative law judge. A time frame for the adjudication of an IPV hearing is included in R6-12-1203(G). The Administrative Law Judge is required to issue the IPV decision no later than 90 days from the date of the notice of hearing.

- 1. A parent is absent due to involuntary hospitalization, incarceration, or deportation.
  - 2. A parent is a convicted offender who is living in the home while serving a sentence of unpaid public or community service; however, such parent shall not be considered part of the assistance unit for computation of the grant.   - 2. The parent is absent solely to serve active military duty.
  - 3. The parents maintain separate dwellings but consider themselves part of a single home or family unit.
  - 4. One parent is deliberately absent from home in order to qualify the remaining family members for benefits.

- F. A child is deprived if either parent of the child is deceased and the child has not been adopted. The applicant or recipient shall provide the Department with documentation verifying a death.

- D. The 24-month limit and 60-month period begin in the calendar month following the month the person reaches age 18.
- E. Once the 60-month time period begins, it continues for 60 consecutive months. A subsequent 60-month period begins the first eligible month following expiration of a prior 60-month period.

  - C. To qualify for an extension, the recipient shall establish that he or she has followed a course of action throughout the period of AFDC eligibility which is reasonably designed to result in employment, and which demonstrates a willingness to work.   - E. To qualify for an extension, the recipient shall:
    1. Make at least 3 contacts, as prescribed in subsection (C) above, each month throughout the period of AFDC eligibility; and

  - G. A person is deemed to have failed to make a good faith effort to seek work if the person has willfully followed a course of action designed to discourage prospective employers from hiring the person for suitable work.
  - H. The Department shall not grant an extension to a person who:
    1. Cannot demonstrate a good faith effort to find and accept employment as prescribed in subsections (C) and (E);
    2. Refuses, without demonstrating good cause, to accept a bona fide offer of employment which would provide income at least equivalent to the portion of the AFDC grant for which the person is no longer eligible; income in the month received for the purpose of determining continued eligibility.

1. Such income is attributed to the assistance unit, and added to the unit's other income, to determine if the assistance unit meets the financial eligibility criteria.
  2. If the unit continues to satisfy the financial eligibility criteria, the Department shall compute the assistance unit's benefit amount without regard to the support DCSE has collected, except that any collected funds which DCSE passes on to the assistance unit shall be treated as unearned income in the month received.
- C. After the eligibility approval date, if an assistance unit member receives child support, alimony, spousal maintenance, or medical support after assigning to the Department the right to such support, and the member fails to turn over the support to the Department, the Department shall:

  3. The Department shall compute the period of ineligibility by:
    - a. Adding the amount from subsection (A)(2) to the assistance unit's other income for each corresponding budget month, and
    - b. Dividing the amount from subsection (A)(3)(a) by the need standard applicable to the assistance unit.
  4. The resulting number shall be the number of months the assistance unit is ineligible. Any remaining amount (that cannot be evenly divided) shall be treated as unearned income in the first month following the period of ineligibility.
  5. The ineligibility period shall begin in the month in which the assistance unit received the lump sum income.
- B. The Department shall recalculate the period of ineligibility as provided in subsection (C) below, when:
1. The need standard changes for all assistance units; or
  2. The lump sum income becomes unavailable to the assistant unit for reasons beyond the control of the unit members; such reasons include, but are not limited to:
    - a. Involuntary removal of the lump sum income;
    - b. During the period of ineligibility, an assistance unit member incurs and pays for medical services provided or authorized by a licensed or certified health care practitioner or organization, which services are not covered by insurance or other third party benefits.

- A. The Department shall determine projected monthly income for an assistance unit by the methods described in this Section.

    - a. Irregularly; or
    - b. Regularly, but from sources or in amounts which vary.

    - a. When a person receives income pursuant to a fixed-term employment contract:
      - i. Income shall be counted in the month received, if received monthly or more often, throughout all months of the contract
      - ii. Income shall be prorated over the number of months in the contract if payment is received before or during the time work is performed, but not as specified in subsection (i) above;
      - iii. Income shall be prorated over the number of months in the contract if payment is received upon completion of the work;
      - iv. For AFDC cases which fall within subsection (C)(2)(a)(iii) above, applicable earned income disregards shall apply as if the prorated amounts were received in each month of the contract. The resulting amounts for each month shall then be totaled and counted in the month received as a lump sum pursuant to R6-12-504(C).
- D. Actual income.

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Final Rulemaking

1. When using this method, the Department shall use the actual amount of income received in a month and shall not convert the income to a monthly amount pursuant to R6-12-506(D).
2. The Department shall use actual income for an assistance unit which:
  - a. Receives or reasonably expects to receive less than a full month's income from a new source.

R6-12-602. Caretaker Relative of SSI or Foster Care Child

- C. If the assistance unit qualifies for AFDC pursuant to subsection (B), the Department shall not count the needs, resources, and income of the SSI recipient child, or foster care recipient child, when determining the benefit amount.
- D. Notwithstanding the provisions of R6-12-311, the parent or NPCR of an SSI recipient child, or a foster care recipient child, need not assign to the Department any rights to child support but shall assign any right to receive alimony or spousal maintenance.

    - b. Actual payments for spousal maintenance, child support, or support of dependents who reside outside the home but who can be claimed as dependents for federal income tax purposes; and
  5. Count the resulting figure as unearned income available to the alien.
- F. When a person sponsors 2 or more aliens, the Department shall prorate income and expenses, deemed available, among the sponsored aliens.
- G. When an assistance unit includes both a sponsored alien and other members, and the deeming provisions of this Section would render the assistance unit ineligible, the Department shall determine eligibility of the other members without considering the sponsored alien or the sponsor's income or resources.
- H. The sponsored alien and the sponsor are jointly liable for any overpayment resulting from the sponsor's provision of incorrect or incomplete information, unless the sponsor had good cause, so as to make the alien solely liable. Good cause includes:
  1. The Department failed to inform the alien or the sponsor that the information was necessary; or
  2. Extenuating personal circumstances prevented the sponsor from providing necessary information.
